

CONTENTS

NAOMI GRABER, with MARIDA RIZZUTI
Preface	vii
TRANSFORMATIONS
STEPHEN HINTON
Weill's Cinematic Imagination: Reality and Fantasy	3
FRANCESCO FINOCCHIARO
Kurt Weill and the Principle of 'Concertante Music'	21
WILLIAM A. EVERETT
Kurt Weill and the American Operetta Tradition: The Firebrand of Florence and Where Do We Go from Here?	37
NAOMI GRABER,
«Steel Veins»: Technology, Nature, and the Documentary in Railroads on Parade	57
MARIDA RIZZUTI
Shared Authorship and Compositional Process in 1940s Hollywood: One Touch of Venus by Kurt Weill and Ann Ronell	79
ARIANNE JOHNSON QUINN
Musical Language, Censorship, and Theatrical Identity in Kurt Weill's London Works (1930-1935)	99

TIM CARTER
Kurt Weill's 'Song of the Free' (1942): A «United Nations Anthem»?	117
RECONFIGURATIONS
NILS GROSCH
How Many Weills?: Rethinking a Musician's Identity	147
LEO IZZO
Changes in Kurt Weill's Music: Cross Cultural Reception between Jazz and Avant-garde	163
MISAKO OHTA
Die Dreigroschenoper in Japan: The 'Threepenny Fever' in Its Early Days	185
TOBIAS FASSHAUER
«Hard to Distinguish from Cole Porter»: On the Deeper Truth of an Invective by Adorno	209
REBECCA SCHMID
Street Scenes	225
KIM H. KOWALKE
Whats Makes Weill Weill?	247
ABSTRACTS AND BIOGRAPHIES	263
INDEX OF NAMES	271